HOW THEY DRAG!

Every Day Congressmen Think Appropriation Bills

Will Soon Be Made Into Laws,

BUT STILL THEY LAG.

Prospects of Adjournment by Middle of June.

WASHINGTON, May 8. - [Special.] -Every day or two leaders of the house assure us that the appropriations bills are going along swimmingly and will soon become laws, and yet all sorts of little difficulties spring up, and the thing drags. Hen. Ames Cummings, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, is getting somewhat impatient to be defending the bill which comes next on the calendar after the army bill and the river and harbor bill. "There will," says Mr. Cummings, be at least three very pretty little fights ever our bill, but we have prepared it with such cereful regard to existing conditions and demands that we expect it to become a law exactly as it now is. The Depublicans will probably make a sharp fight in favor of two or three more battleships, and some of both parties will no doubt object to appropriating money for reflitting the old Hartford. They will alaim that it is mere matter of sentiment, as the Hartford is Farragus's old flagship and one of the only two really historic government vessels we have since the Kearsarge went to pieces on Reneader roof, but it is not all a matter of sentiment by any means. Her hull is in tiptop condition, and with modern machinery and bettery and a general refit-ting she will corve as a splendid flagship for many a year yet.

New Features. "Another item over which there may be some strugglo is that of $200,000 for the Chiengo. She was the first of our armored craisers and has been in service 11 years, so she is now counted a slow vessel. With new engines and new machinery we can save space and increase speed and make her prestlenily a new vessel. Now, the main points of this bill have been published by fits and starts here and there and some brief summaries of our report on it, and yes there are several new features in it which have scarcely been noticed. One is that any foreigner who has served five years in our mavy or one unbroken enlistment in the marine corps and been honorably discharged shall be admitted to citizenship upon application under the same conditions as if he had lived in the country the required number of years. In other words, no matter in what part of the world he emilate, his time runs in our navy just as if he had landed in the country and de-elared his intention on that day. I do not think there will be any opposition to this clause, though there may be You see, these men have no opportunity to acquire entisonship, and yet it is morally certain that any man is well fitted for it who has stood the test of five years in our navy. Why, we have foreigners who have served 29 years and are not yet entitled to any privilege of citizenship.

A Contrast to Other Powers. "Take notice also that we have neither increased nor decreased a salary, and that while the secretary's estimates were for $37,951,279 we have appropriated but $25,-920,966. Now, it has from the beginning been Democratic doctrine that the navy was to be supported liberally, while a standing army was to be kept down to the line of what was absolutely necessary, and we found that the contracts for which the secretary asked this $2,500,000 could not he completed till 1896 anyhow, and so there will be ample opportunity to approprinte whatever is needed at the short term. And right here comes in the delicate question as to how far we are justified in going ahead with new contracts while important questions are in doubt. You must remember that the French have found the Magenta worthless, and the English confess themselves afraid of their old vessels and have appropriated $80,000,-600 for new ones. It is just as well to wait awhile anyhow, for it may turn out that many of the supposed ocean terrors of this day are more terrible to sailors and taxpayers than to the enemy. But, my, what a contrast we present to other powers, after all—to England, with 207 torpedo boats; France, 293; Italy, 179; Russia, 165, and so on down the list to little Portugal, with nine, and these United States have only

Torpedo Boats. "In addition to these there are now 197 torpedo boats in the course of construction in fureign countries and the latest types of increased size and speed, so the committee felt impelled to provide for more. You must not make the mistake so many newspapers to of confounding these torpedo boats with torpedo vessels or torpedo cruis-We have authorized the construction of four and the change of the Vesuvius into a boat of this class. To all this, as I said before, I am positive there will be no great objection, and the passage of the bill will only be delayed by inquiries for explanation of the minutize of the bill. It is not necessary to go into any specific account of all the little details, because not one rson in a thousand cares enough about it to really understand it, and if he does he can send for the regular reports. The amount of it is this: It requires a special study—a study as long as that required to stare in a profession—to fully understand the needs of the navy, and we modestly think we have given it that study and got up a bill that will go through without a scratch and in a few days. And now that we are certain of the tariff bill passing the senate with a good majority I really see no eason why we should not get away from here by the middle of June."

A Vigorous Foreign Policy. So far Mr. Cummings, and only that part of his talk which was on comparatively new points has been given, though the was of very great interest. There seems to be something in the spirit or in the air of the naval departments as well as of every part of the navy which excites grand ideas of a vigorous foreign policy, and the same sort of feeling is usually manifest in any one who serves in the naval committee any length of time. This, owever, is but the natural effect of each man's tendency to magnify his office. It goes without saying that all naval men are in favor of the annexation of Hawaii-Nel. Said a Democratic member who does not defeats the annexation of these islands, it will make the boss mistake of its jagged career. Annexation is always popular with Americans—with any progressive people, in fact. They have not only defeated but destroyed any party that opposed annexa-tion—Federalist, Whig or anything else. Of course they cannot destroy the Demo-cratic party, but they can make it mighty sick and keep it out of power a long time, and they will."

A LAWYER DISBARRED.

Held the Right to Practice in the St preme Court Only One Day.

James S. Dean, of this city, was a practicing atrorney before the state supreme court for just one day. He was admitted last Tuesday afternoon and this morning a decree, debarring him was entered by order of the court.

A short time ago Dean was admitted to practice in Oklahoma on certificates from Indiana courts, and was disbarred in Oklahoma on the ground that his admission was secured by fraud, as he had already been disbarred in the Indiana

Dean's next move was to secure admission to the Kansas courts and he appeared before Judge Hazen and secured admission on his old certificates. He then went to the supreme court and on motion of Judge W. C. Webb he was admitted without question—the court relying upon the recommendation of Judge Webb. When they found out something of Dean's actions they at once took the matter in hand and the order disbarring him was made.

THOSE FARM REPORTS.

Todd Will Not Give His Authority For

His Discouraging Statements. W. F. Hill, editor of the Westmoreland Recorder, was in Topeka last night trying to see the reports of Labor Commissioner Todd, on which he based his published declaration that farming in Kansas doesn't pay. Mr. Hill wanted to see especially those reports from his own county, Pottawatomie. Mr. Todd refused to let Hill see the original reports, which he keeps locked up tight in a drawer. Todd said, "That's a devil of a request!"

Todd said to a Journal reporter concerning the report: "The reports are made by me all over the state, and the law gives me full power to compel the answer of any questions I may ask, so that it would not be fair to divulge their names, and subject them perhaps to criticism, so I refused Mr. Hill and would refuse any one else. I will pubtish the documents in my forthcoming report, but I will not give the names; only the township and county from which they came.'

A. R. McGregor of Emporia, Will Join His Wife in That Institution.

EMPORIA, May 3 .- In the district court A. R. McGregor pleaded guilty to being implicated in the burglary of Maj. Hood's residence, and will be sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. This is the last of the cases caused by the notorious A. B. Treadwell.

While being concealed in this city, at the home of A. R. McGregor, he one night stepped out and burglarized the residence of Maj. Calvin Hood, president of the Emporia National bank, stealing among other things, a valuable gold watch, and jumping out of a back window just in time to escape a bullet from the major's revolver. The watch was recovered and traced to Mrs. McGregor, whose trial caused a sensation. She was sent to the penitentiary and now her husband follows her.
